A company has been organized at Portland, Maine, to extract gold from sea water by electrical process. There will doubtless be considerable watering of the stock.

The Charleston News and Courier says "McKinleyism is worse than Bryanism." Of course it is. Every sensible person who is not infected with McKinleyism knows that.

Gov. Bushnell doesn't like to be asked if he will accept the Senatorship to succeed Hanna. He prefers to play mum, lie on the bank and grab the apple if it drifts his way.

The Philadelphia Ledger says ex-President Harrison, like ex-President Cleveland, is out of politics. They have something else to think of now. They both have new babies at their houses.

Bob Ingersoll admits that the "times are still a little hard." Perhaps the people out his way are taking more interest in the mistakes of McKinley than in the mistakes of Moses and are not chipping in to Bob so freely.

A Detroit newspaper man who seems to be somewhat proud of Detroit women, declares that "angels are painted to look like them." For the benefit of outsiders he should now tell us how his women are painted.

The town council of Milburn, N. J., is in a quandary as to whether it will invest $3 in a fire alarm, or run the old locomotive tire which they have been pounding with rocks to give alarms. They have already had more than $7.50 worth of talk about it, but haven't been able to decide.

A Chicago Alderman expresses the opinion that foot ball is forty times worse than prize fighting." In view of the fact that it is only occasionally that the prize fighter gets in the solar plexis dab, there are a good many people who will agree with the Chicago solon that foot ball is forty times as bad, if not worse.

Attention is called to the following REDUCED RATES of Subscription to THE MORNING STAR:

TO CITY SUBSCRIBERS.

The STAR will be delivered by carrier at any point in the city at 12 cents per week, or 45 cents per month.

It is stated on the authority of gentlemen who have recently conversed with President McKinley that he will recommend that greenbacks be reissued only in exchange for gold. This is Secretary Gage's scheme to lock the greenbacks up, and if carried out would probably succeed in locking up greenbacks enough to raise a howl so loud that would bring them out again. That is simply whipping the devil around the stump to evade the law that requires that they be re issued.

The Macon Telegraph, gold paper, rises to ask, "Is the Platform Greater than the Party?" Without undertaking to solve this problem it may be incidentally remarked that without a platform there wouldn't be much of a party. And it might be also incidentally asked who is to decide what is the party, the fellows who stand on the platform or the fellows who kick against it?

Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, prides himself on his success in farming. He took a dollar premium at a county fair for the four best heads of lettuce. Judging from the New York Sun's recently expressed opinions about Whitelaw he would have stood a pretty good chance of taking first prize if he had entered himself as a cabbage head.

As a general thing we do not hanker for capital punishment for women, even when they murder folks, but in the case of Mrs. Nack, of New York, it would be the proper thing, as she and Thorn were the joint perpetrators of Guldensuppe's taking off, that they should be placed side by side in the chairs for the doomed and be sent off together.

It is now very strongly suspected that the negro postmaster at Hogansville, Ga., who said he was shot at by persons who wanted to have him removed, put up the job himself, and that he scratched his arm, which he never permitted to be examined, and shot the weatherboarding of his house himself.

The New York Commercial Advertiser has an editorial devoted to "foreign interest in America." About the only interest the foreigner takes in America is the interest and the dividends he takes out of it.

Sandbagging unsuspecting denizens of Washington is becoming a common occurrence in that town now. But then it must be remembered that the Republican party is on top there now.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

The Odd Fellows Will Make It a Happy Occasion for the Orphans in the Home at Goldsboro.

Thanksgiving Day is near at hand, and during the time which will elapse between now and then the Odd Fellows of this city hope, with the aid of the generous public of Wilmington, to send to the Odd Fellows' Orphan Home, at Goldsboro, where many of the children of departed members of the Order are sheltered and educated, a large Thanksgiving offering, which will gladden the hearts of the fatherless and motherless ones, whose path through life has not been strewed with the choicest flowers.

The following committees are now at work in the interest of the object just stated, viz:

The Cotton Crop.

While many claim that the cotton crop is nearly all harvested, there are others who say that there is plenty of the staple in the fields yet. In fact, so favorable for cotton harvesting have the seasons been, that the farmers have found difficulty in getting the crop housed. A gentleman who travelled a good deal in the cotton section last week, says that there are lots of cotton farms from which the crop has not all been taken by a good deal. The port receipts yesterday were much heavier than they were on the corresponding day of last year.

Election of Delegates.

A meeting of the New Hanover County Truckers' Association was held yesterday afternoon at the county court house. Mr. H. T. Bauman presided and Mr. G. W. Westbrook acted as secretary in the absence of the regular secretary, Mr. Sol. J. Jones. The only business transacted was the election of delegates to the semi-annual meeting of the general association, which will be held on Tuesday next. Messrs. G. Z. French, G. W. Westbrook and H. T. Bauman were chosen.

At the First Baptist Church To-night.

Prof. E. W. Sikes, representing Wake Forest College, is in the city and will make an address at the First Baptist church at 7.30 o'clock to-night. His subject will be "Christian Culture." Prof. Sikes is a Ph. D. graduate of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and a speaker of such unusual ability as always to command a large audience.

OPERA HOUSE.

The Burglar To-morrow Evening and the Veriscope Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings.

At the Opera House to-morrow evening can be seen that pretty drama, "The Burglar," which is a fine play, and, judging by the criticisms accorded it in Virginia and in Fayetteville, the company presenting the piece, which is managed by A Q. Scammon, is one of ability.

The opening scene is laid in the home of the wealthy. The happiness of the particular home in question is marred by the fact that the husband and father turns out to be a burglar, escapes arrest by compromise, and goes away. He is captured, and in escaping from jail is supposed to be shot and reported dead. The wife marries again and in the second act comes the news that her first husband is not dead. The burglar, bent on plunder, visits the home of his wife, not knowing it is such and is discovered by his own little daughter, whereupon ensues one of the most original scenes ever seen on the stage.

The play has been seen here before and is well known, being taken from Mrs. Burnett's charming sketch, "Editha's Burglar." This sketch Mr. Augustus Thomas has enlarged upon and turned into a four-act play of great strength.

THE VERISCOPE,

a machine which projects animated and life-size pictures of the Corbett and Fitzsimmons fight, which took place in Carson City last March, will open a two-nights engagement at the Opera House, commencing Tuesday evening. The Veriscope is without doubt the most perfect of any of the projecting picture machines yet produced and is the only machine upon which was taken a record of the greatest glove contest of the century. In showing the fourteen rounds of this contest, together with the preliminary and final scenes, over 188,000 pictures are cast upon the canvas, each picture in itself, and yet merging so smoothly into each other that the whole seems like one picture endowed with the supernatural motion of life.

Seats for both of the above attractions can be obtained at Gerken's.

COLONIAL DAMES.

The North Carolina Division Have Established Headquarters at the S. A. L. Building on North Front Street.

Over one hundred members, representing many towns and cities in the State, now constitute the North Carolina Division of the Society of Colonial Dames, of which grand historical organization Mrs. Geo. W. Kidder of this city is president, and to such a large number has the membership of this division grown, that it was found necessary to obtain an assembly hall in which to hold the meetings of the division, and a suite of rooms to be utilized by the members as sociable and historical parlors. The committee, Mrs. Gabriel Holmes, Mrs. Geo. Rountree and Miss Hannah Bolles, appointed to secure such an apartment, have succeeded in renting commodious and comfortable rooms in the Seaboard Air Line building on Front street, The rooms will be elaborately equipped and furnished, and will be used by the members of the division as a club room. The work of furnishing the rooms is now in progress and will be completed in about two weeks, and the division upon the opening night will hold a reception to commemorate the event.

Matrimonial Events.

In this city during the present week two marriages will occur. Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Grace M. E. church, Mr. William Harriss Howell and Miss Annie Hartridge Dudley, two popular young people of this city, will join hands and be united in marriage.

Thursday at high noon, in St. James' Episcopal church, Hon. Thomas Settle, of Greensboro, will lead to the altar Miss Eliza Potter of this city. Miss Potter, the bride-elect, and her sister, Miss Sallie Potter, arrived in the city yesterday morning from Camden, N. J., accompanied by Misses Ethel and Alice Gray, of Camden.

A Narrow Escape.

Yesterday morning, at the intersection of Third and Princess streets, a street car narrowly missed running over an aged white woman, who heedless, possibly through deafness of the ringing of the gong as a signal of danger by the motorman on board the car, crossed the track directly in front of the car, which at the time was about two feet from the spot where she crossed and moving rapidly. It was through no negligence either on the part of the conductor or motorman on the car that an accident came near taking place.

Frost Yesterday Morning.

The first really big frost of the season fell yesterday. There was a killing frost in Virginia, and a light one all the way down to Florida.

There was a heavy frost all over North Carolina. At Wrightsville it was cold enough for the ground to freeze over to a very slight depth. A heavy frost was reported at Rocky Point.

The weather grew perceptibly warmer yesterday, and there will be some frost this morning, though not so much as yesterday.

Mortuary Report.

The record in the office of Dr. W. D. McMillan, Superintendent of Health, shows that during the past week there were nine deaths, five whites and four colored, and nine births, seven whites and two colored. During the past week deaths were caused by the following diseases, viz: Marasmus, 1; inanition, 2; choleraic diarrhœa, 1; consumption, 5.

The associated railways of Virginia and the Carolinas have issued a classification circular making the less than car load rate on coffee, flour, grain, lard, malt, meal, meat, beef, pork, millstuff, molasses, rice, soap, soda and sugar (which have heretofore taken the same rate as car load shipments) four cents per hundred pounds higher than car load rate.

MR. WOLCOTT TALKS

Senator Wolcott, in pursuance of whose resolution adopted by Congress a monetary commission was appointed to visit Europe and work up an international monetary congress, and who was made one of the commission, called on the President a few days ago to report as to what was done and give reasons for the failure to accomplish what the commission was ostensibly sent for. We say ostensibly sent for because President McKinley had no more faith in the accomplishment of anything substantial by that commission than he has that he could fill his mouth with air and blow the dome off the Capitol. Referring to his visit, the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says:

"Senator Wolcott has seen the President since his return to Washington and explained to him the operations of the Silver Commission while in Europe. Under the act authorizing the appointment of the Commission, the report of their labors is to be made to the President and by him transmitted to Congress. This report will be especially interesting and will include all the correspondence between the Commission and the several Governments of Europe with which communication was had in the furtherance of the increased use of silver. Senator Wolcott will draw the report, and hopes to have it ready for the President in time for use in his annual message. He explained to the President in his interview the reasons for the failure of the Commission, but notwithstanding this failure Senator Wolcott is not without hope that the object in view will ultimately, and at no distant day, be successful. He said in private conversation that when everything was progressing in a satisfactory manner and there were indications that the British Cabinet would go as far as had been promised, reopening the Indian mints and consenting to a conference, the press of Great Britain and the bankers of London criticised the Cabinet so savagely that it was force to take a course contrary to what the Commission had expected."

The correspondence herein referred to may be interesting, but the most interesting statement is that "Senator Wolcott is not without hope that the object in view will ultimately, and at no distant day, be successful." Senator Wolcott seemed to be pretty sanguine of success during all the time he was abroad, and whenever he talked about the prospect he always talked in a very hopeful and confident way. He was so little averse to talking that the other two members of the commission let him do the talking for the batch whether they shared his professed hopes or subscribed to his views or not. The probabilities are that they didn't, for they were both older stagers than Mr. Wolcott and less reckless about going into print. Men who start out with a purpose in which they take an interest and with the belief that they will succeed don't like to make a square confession of failure and generally will, if they can, find some way to let themselves down easy, and that is precisely what Senator Wolcott is doing in this instance. He therefore will not own up to being knocked out or to have given up hope, but still pretends to believe that the missionary work he and his associates did will have its effect and yet be successful.

Privately he gave some of the reasons for the failure to make connection with England, which was the howling at the crucial time by the big newspapers of London. If they had been mum Mr. Wolcott would have worked his business all right. If the dog hadn't stopped to pay attention to some fleas he would have caught the rabbit, and it it hadn't been for those pesky, meddlesome newspapers Mr. Wolcott and his associates would have scooped in the British Ministry, which they had on the string when the newspapers started the howl and scared it off. They had the hook baited all right, but the noise of those organs spoiled the fishing.

Candidly, we think this had something to do with it, for the Ministry at one time thought it advisable to listen to the petitions sent in by English bimetallists, among them a huge one by the cotton spinners of England and representatives of other industries praying for co-operation with France and the United States for the restoration of bimetallism, and possibly the Ministry might have complied if the gentlemen interested in keeping the yellow metal on top had said nothing to the contrary, but when they spoke and the papers that belong to them started the racket then the Ministry crawfished and tumbled, for they didn't have the nerve to antagonize the gentlemen who stand behind the stacks of yellow coins and run kingdoms, and have big newspapers to do their talking for them. The great Napoleon once said that "a few influential newspapers were more to be dreaded than an army," and British Ministries these days have a wholesome dread of the newspapers that voice the money power of Great Britain.

But the British ministry hadn't really promised to do anything. It only promised to consider and report, in the interval between the considering and reporting feeling the sentiment of the gold people to find out how they stood. It found now they stood and proceeded accordingly, and then Senator Wolcott and his associates found out where they stood and how they had been politely played by the British Ministry, which was playing its own game.

But perhaps Senator Wolcott has another reason for continuing hopeful of ultimate success. He is a Republican first, and a silver man next. He has been pulling with Mr. McKinley in this silver business for the purpose of at least appearing to carry out in good faith the pledge in the St. Louis platform. As the matter stands now with the commission a failure, so confessed, and without any hope of ever accomplishing anything for silver, the Republican party would be driven to take a different position and come out either for or against silver without any international proviso hedging. This would practically compel it to declare for bimetallism, independent of other nations, or for the gold standard pure and simple, a position in which the Republican leaders do not wish to be placed, and in which they can slide out of it.

As a Republican interested in the future of the party, and co-operating with Mr. McKinley to save it, Senator Wolcott will put up the best job he can in his report to give his party an excuse to hang on to the "international agreement" fake which the leaders found so useful in the past campaign in pulling the wool over the eyes of silver Republicans. This is undoubtedly his programme, for Senator Wolcott knows as well as he knows how to spell his name, that England will never consent to the rehabilitation of silver until industrial and commercial necessities force her to it. The sooner this country acts, the sooner that will be.

MINOR MENTION.

According to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who is pretty well posted on the iron business, the only thing the iron and steel makers of this country need to distance their European competitors and build up an immense trade in foreign countries is cheap transportation. He calls attention to the fact, that while it costs $13 50 a ton to make pig iron in England, it is made at Pittsburg at $9 50 a ton, a difference of $3 a ton in favor of Pittsburg. Mr. Carnegie didn't want to advertise Birmingham, Ala., where, if we remember rightly, it can be made at about $7.50 a ton. Even at the present cost of transportation Birmingham is shipping pig iron to Europe and underselling the home producers. Mr. Carnegie's plan to secure the cheaper transportation is to subsidize ships, which would encourage the building of them, but however this may be if Mr. Carnegie can afford to make pig iron for $3 a ton less than the English maker can shouldn't he be able to ship it to England, as the Birmingham iron men are doing, and make a reasonable profit? These beneficiaries of protection have been so in the habit of looking to the Government that tariff protection, subsidies and all that sort of thing always loom up in their figuring as essential, when the facts show that they are not.

* * *

Some of the gold organs, commenting on the low interest rates in some of the money centers and the success of some of the railroads in refunding their bonds at lower rates of interest, argue that this is a proof of an abundance of money, that money is cheaper, and cheaper because the "cheap money party" was defeated in the Presidential election. If this be so then money should soon become dear again since the cheap money fellows rather got the better of their opponents in the late elections. But they do not give the right reason why money is getting cheaper. It is neither the abundance of money nor the defeat of the "cheap money party," as they call it, which does it. It is the lack of demand for money which makes it a drug in the money centers where it is locked up. When there is a demand for money interest rates run higher, just as when there is a demand for labor wages increase, and when there is a demand for wheat, cotton or anything else the prices go up. Under the present monetary system, largely due to the gold standard policy, the money of the country is controlled by the central banks and accumulates in the money centers where there is little demand for it, and where to get it out of their vaults and make it earn something the holders are willing to put it out at low interest rates on such time as they may name and such security as may be acceptable, but this doesn't help the merchant, farmer or shop man, who find it no easy matter to borrow money, and when they do get it, pay about as much for it as they have been paying heretofore. The only inference from this "cheap money" about which these organs are talking is that there is not sufficient activity in the industries and, on the line of development to create a demand for money, and hence it must either lie idle in the vaults or be put out at such rates of interest as the holders can get.

* * *

The reports of the United States Department of Agriculture as to the yield of cotton per acre for this year, gives a little over a third of a bale. This doesn't vary much from average preceding years. On this statement it isn't hard to understand why there is no profit in cotton at present prices, for they are scarcely above the average cost of production. At seven cents a pound there might be a margin perhaps of a couple cents, but allowing 300 pounds to the acre this would leave only $4 above the cost of production, out of which must come the cost of ginning, bagging, ties, and other expenses incident to the marketing of the crop. The thrifty farmer who raises his own supplies, and cultivates cotton as a side crop, might save himself and perhaps lay by some money at seven cents or even somewhat lower price, or the man who cultivates largely and economically might do it, but the average planter who makes cotton his main crop, the crop on which he depends for the money to run his plantation and meet his obligations can't do it, and will find it a tight scratch to come out even. Cotton, to pay the planter reasonably for his labor, and leave him a fair profit on his investment, should never be below ten cents, at least while he has to cultivate three acres to make a bale.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Greenville Weekly: Mr. N. R. Corey, of Coxville, showed us this week his patent pea, bean and rice planter. It is a most simple, useful and easily operated planter, that can be regulated to plant any number or quantity of seed.

— Monroe Enquirer: Mr. Walter Hull, yard conductor at Aberdeen, while stepping off of a switch engine last Monday night, missed his footing and fell under the engine, receiving injuries from which he died at seven o'clock Tuesday morning.

— Goldsboro Argus: The Argus regrets to chronicle the death of Mr. Kirby Hill, 17 years of age, son of our esteemed friend and countryman Rev. Jacob F. Hill, who, we are sorry to learn, is himself critically ill.

— Charlotte Observer: John Johnson killed another negro, Henry Spruill, at Biscoe, a station on the Ashebora & Aberdeen road in Montgomery county Tuesday night on the way from a negro festival. Johnson shot Spruill through the heart, killing him instantly. Spruill cut Johnson in several places before he was shot.

— Wilson Times: Mrs. F. A. Ricks died Tuesday about 2 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Brodie, in this city. Mrs. Ricks came here on a visit some time ago, and has been confined to her bed for seven weeks. The deceased was about 76 years of age, and enjoyed excellent health up to the beginning of her last illness. She was the mother of Mrs. Ella Brodie, of this city, and of ex-Sheriff Ricks, of Nash county.

—Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer: The farmers of this section are sowing more of both oats and wheat this year than usual. This is always the case when cotton gets so low that it won't pay the expenses of making it. ——Last Saturday night Mr. C. S. Liles, of Morven township, had the misfortune to have his cotton house, together with its contents, consisting of two bales of cotton in the seed and the seed from five bales, destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. No insurance.

— Monroe Journal: Wednesday night of last week, at about twelve o'clock, fire destroyed the gin and machinery of Mr. G. W. Bailey, situated on the plantation of Rev. J. L. Bennett, of Marshville township. Six bales of cotton and a lot of cotton seed were also consumed. Three bales of the cotton belonged to Rev. J. L. Bennett, and one each to T. L. Eason, Ed. Haney and G. W. Bailey. Thursday Mr. Bailey indicted Horace Collins and Willis Pierce, charging them with setting fire to the property, and they were required to give bond for their appearance at Monroe Saturday. Collins gave the bond of $200, but Pierce failed and was put in jail.

— Salisbury Sun: A party who came down on the Chattanooga train this morning tells of a suicide at Newton Thursday evening. About sunset Dr. John Setzer, who boards with Capt. L. A. Frazier's stepmother, was talking pleasantly with that lady. He seemed to be in good spirits. But shortly afterwards he returned to his room and in a few minutes three pistol shots were heard. The doctor had committed suicide—this was ascertained when his room was visited a few minutes afterwards. He was found dead and the pistol was close by. Dr. Setzer was a dentist, at least he studied dentistry but never practiced it. He was a bachelor, aged about 45, and of considerable means.

CURRENT COMMENT

——For a man who during the St. Louis convention said he never wanted a public office the Hon. Mark Hanna is taking considerable interest in the uncertain result of the Ohio election. Chicago News, Ind

——When Great Britain is cornered she always finds a way to retreat effectually, not to say gracefully. It will probably be revealed some time that Sir Wilfred Laurier hastened to Washington at the behest of Lord Salisbury to hedge on the tripartite sealing agreement entered into by the United States, Russia and Japan.—Baltimore Herald, Dem.

——Dollar wheat, so far from making friends for McKinley or the goldbugs, has proven to the farmers of the country that the contention of the silver people was right. The opponents of the free silver movement were so anxious to prove that the Republicans had brought about prosperity that almost to an individual they have exulted over the advance in wheat, showing that they knew that high priced wheat would bring about better times. The scarcity of wheat has depreciated gold and given the farmer a fair price for his labor, and an abundant currency would give him a profit on all the products of his arm.—Richmond State, Dem.

—— Mr. Ulysses S. Grant is a believer in protection, but he says: "We must extend the principle further, and protect the men and women, whose toil and skill produce the goods," and that "otherwise protection is only a mockery." Remarks of this sort are calculated to renew the dark suspicion that the existing prosperity never came from Dingley at all. But before there can be any further extension of the principle, it will be necessary to have the acquiescence of the trusts, which may not think it advisable at this stage to disturb the business interests, etc.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

A Child's Gown.

A pretty little gown for a child, called the tot dress, is formed of a rich shade of crimson French cashmere. The front of the rather short waist is trimmed with large flat cream white cashmere revers edged with narrow, dark red gimp laid in two straight rows. The revers form a large sailor collar at the back, and in front border a pointed plastron of the white cashmere striped horizontally all the way down with the gimp. The sleeves, full to several inches below the elbow, are gathered into deep white cuffs bordered with the gimp. The kilted skirt has a wide hem brier stitched at the top with cream white silk.—New York Post.

Office Girls.

They are introducing office girls in Chicago, and those who have them in their employ are very well pleased with them. They say that the office girl is superior to the office boy in many particulars. In the first place she does not smoke cigarettes. As a rule she has absolutely no taste for dime novels. She is usually bright, quick and energetic, and ever so much cleaner and neater than any boy can be. Testimony upon this point is almost unanimous, and most of those who have tried office girls declare that never again will they have an office boy around the premises.—Boston Herald.

Household Goods.

The ancient Greeks believed that the Penates were the gods who attended to the welfare and prosperity of the family. They were worshipped as household gods in every home. The household god of to-day is Dr. King's New Discovery. For consumption, coughs, colds and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs it is invaluable. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and is guaranteed to cure, or money refunded. No household should be without the good angel. It is pleasant to take and a safe and sure remedy for old and young. Free trial bottles at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. †

THE BIRD WITH A BROKEN WING.

I walked in the woodland meadows,
Where sweet the thrushes sing,
And found on a bed of mosses
A bird with a broken wing;
I healed its wound and each morning
It sang its old sweet strain,
But the bird with a broken pinion
Never soared so high again.

I found a young life broken
By sin's seductive act,
And touched with child-like pity
I took him to my heart again;
He lived with a noble purpose
And struggled not in vain.
But the life that sin had stricken
Never soared so high again.

But the bird with a broken pinion
Kept another from the snare,
And the life that sin had stricken
Raised another from despair;
Each loss has its compensation,
There are healings for every pain,
But the bird with a broken pinion
Never soars as high again.

SUNDAY SELECTIONS.

— Let no day pass without personal secret communion with God.

— If you would lift me, you must be on higher ground.—Emerson.

— Have on your heart some person or cause for which you are pleading God's blessings each day.

— Let us offer to Christ in unwavering faith what the Wise Men offer to Him in gifts.—Fulgentius.

— Begin each day by taking counsel from the Word of God, if but one verse while you are dressing.

— It would puzzle an angel to make out what some people mean when they say, 'Thy kingdom come."—Ram's Horn.

— Do not act as if thou wert going to live ten thousand years. Death hangs over thee. While thou livest, while it is in thy power, be good.—M Antonius.

— Enthusiasm may be a help, but it creates no truth; it is valuable if it leads to depth, but an injury if it encourages flights from solid ground into regions of revery and mythology.—Stuckenburg.

— Inbred sin must be frankly and fully "confessed" in order to its removal. It is easy to acknowledge in general terms the sinfulness of our nature, but there may be no real self-abasement in this. It may be merely an escape from conviction under cover of a general law.—Ex

— Public sentiment is everything. With public sentiment nothing can fail; without it nothing can succeed. Consequently, he who molds public sentiment, goes deeper than he who enacts statutes or pronounces decisions. He makes statutes and decisions possible or impossible to be executed.—Abraham Lincoln

— If we love Christ at all, we will love to do His Will. If we love Christ at all, we will love those whom He loves. Thus we are doubly moved as well as doubly bound to missions. Christianity balances Can and Ought; opportunity with responsibility; power with duty. Missions are therefore a test of religion.—Raleigh Biblical Recorder.

Girls and Home.

Technical training for girls in the arts of the home is very much needed in this country, says a New York writer. Abroad it is carried on extensively. Hundreds of institutions are maintained by private subscription, others are managed by the proprietors of large manufacturing establishments, who see in the training of the mothers and daughters better labor results in the fathers and sons, and, still more, are conducted by municipalities. Many of these schools have perfect courses in housekeeping. The pupil begins at the bottom round of the ladder, learning how to manipulate the tools of cleaning, washing, ironing, dishwashing, waiting at table and all the rest of the household detail. She learns to market and make out a palatable menu and is taught the nutritive constituents and economical values of each food served.

She must keep a record of her expenditures and waste. She learns to buy and make clothes, and when she enters her own home is fitted to be its keeper. All through Germany the schools are growing in number. Holland, Belgium, Wurttemberg, Bavaria, Austria, Switzerland, France and Italy have thriving schools, intended for the most part for the children of laboring people. In the United States the work has barely been begun in the few kitchen garden schools which can be counted.

American Women Abroad.

The latest American women to make their mark in foreign lands are Miss Alice Luce, who is a native of Maine, and Miss Ida J. Hyde, who hails from Cincinnati, but who has been identified of late years with Cornell and Bryn Mawr. Each has received a Ph. D. from Heidelberg, and is the admired of many admirers. There is a great difference among universities abroad in regard to their treatment of women.

In Oxford and Cambridge they are allowed to study, but cannot compete with the men. This is very fortunate for the latter, as in the past ten years there have been over 30 women who did better and higher work than any of their male colleagues, and who, had they been admitted to the regular examinations, would have taken the prizes that were awarded the men. In Switzerland women are about as welcome as in the United States, the University of Zurich being the most noted in Europe for the facilities it offers to the sex.

The German universities are about as conservative as the English. They put more obstacles in a woman's way to start with, but after they once do admit a woman they are very just and permit her to receive the same degrees and honors as are accorded the men.—New York Mail and Express.

Miraculous Cures.

Reginald of Durham, who wrote a chronicle some time before 1195, asserts that a young English nobleman was cured of leprosy at the shrine of St. Cuthbert in Durham cathedral, and that a young woman who had been for the space of three years an inmate of a large hospital established at Badele, near Darlington, in the diocese of Durham, was miraculously healed at the shrine of St. Godric at Finchdale, in the presence of Ralph Haget, sheriff of the county, and Norman, parish priest of Hailtune.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and tonic. Try it. Sold for 50 cents or $1 00 per bottle at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store. †

BABY'S SMOOTH, FAIR SKIN

A Grateful Mother Writes this Letter—Tells all about Her Troubles when Baby Broke out with Scrofula Sores.

"At the age of two months, my baby began to have sores break out on his right cheek. We used all the external applications that we could think or hear of, to no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. We consulted a physician and tried his medicine, and in a week the sore was gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another scrofulous looking sore appeared on baby's arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old, but he has never had any sign of those scrofulous sores since he was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I feel very grateful. My boy owes his good health and smooth, fair skin to this great medicine." MRS. S. S. WROTEN, Farmington, Delaware. Get only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are prompt, efficient and easy in effect. 25 cents.

Panniers In Bloom Again.

Panniers, those delightful, useful fripperies made famous by Dolly Varden and associated forever with demure little Dresden china shepherdesses, are again worn. Their place is on evening gowns, and the design comes from no less an authority than Worth. The plain, undraped skirt is growing a bit wearisome, and this happy suggestion of relief will be enthusiastically taken up. Perhaps it is the prelude to the actual overskirt, which was thought to have been well gotten rid of some four or five years ago. At all events the pretty little side draperies have returned and they are welcome. The Worth designs show almost exact reduplications of the familiar Dolly Varden patterns—the skirt is a little short, not very full and with a quilted effect in front, and the panels full and fluffy, meeting at front and back. To be quite in conformity with the new style the skirt should be of plain material and the panels of figured. —Philadelphia Times.

The Liverpool cables were much worse than looked for, showing a net loss of 4 64@5 64d. According to private cables the English cotton market is in a demoralized, semi panicky condition as the result of increasing crop estimates, supported by a heavy movement. ### Altogether Too Wise.

The engaged girl was thoroughly modern in her ideas, while the girl who was not engaged was given to old fashioned romanticism.

"Tell me all about it," said the girl who was not engaged.

"Oh, there isn't much to tell," answered the engaged girl. "I suppose the method of procedure is about the same in all cases."

"I presume," said the girl who was not engaged dreamily, "that he looked soulfully into your eyes and asked you if you loved him?"

"Not a bit of it," returned the engaged girl quickly. "He was altogether too wise to ask any such question as that. He merely asked me if I'd marry him."—Chicago Post.

A Tribute to Mrs. Peavy.

Mrs. A. J. Peavy, the outgoing state superintendent of public instruction in Colorado, has received a recognition accorded none of her predecessors. Her administration has been indorsed by the State Teachers' association, and the recommendations sent by her to the legislature have also received the approval of the teachers in convention assembled. It is generally conceded that no member of the late administration was so efficient, so conscientious, or so devoted to the general good as Mrs. Peavy.—Woman's Journal.

TWO DEVILS.

Flaming Flame was a devil red—
This is what the old Northmen said—
A demon subtle and swift and sly,
Who lived upon wood that was old and dry.
The Northmen fell on their knees for fear
Lest Flaming Flame should come too near.
For his bite was deadly and sharp, they said,
And his tongue was cruel and long and red.
Flaming Flame
Was the devil's name.
This is what the old Northmen said.

Riminy Rime was a devil white,
Who drove his horses at dead of night
And combed their manes, with the wild winds tost,
As he called their names—Hail, Snow and Frost.
And the Northmen fell on their knees to cry
As Riminy Rime went driving by.
They shivered and shook with an awful dread,
For he split great rocks at a glance, they said.
Riminy Rime
Was feared in his time.
This is what the old Northmen said.

Flaming Flame was a devil red,
Who ate dry wood, so the Northmen said.
Riminy Rime was a devil white,
Who split up rocks in the dead of night.
But little Goo Goo, in his cradle warm,
Loves Flaming Flame and fears no harm,
While Riminy Rime at the window, too,
Draws beautiful scenes for little Goo Goo.
Flaming Flame
Was a devil's name.
Riminy Rime
Was feared in his time.
But who cares a fig what the Northmen say,
For little Goo Goo knows better than they.

A LAZY LOVER.

"Mighty souls!" the patriarch cried, flattening his nose against the grimy window pane and peering out into the storm. "Jest look at it a-comin down! Hed I 'a' know'd we was a-goin to hev it like this, you'd 'a' seen me a-leavin home—you'd 'a' seen me a-leavin home."

The old man thoughtfully stroked his bushy beard. He felt that he had met but just retribution for coming to the store to loaf. When, an hour before, he had awakened from a doze in his armchair, picked up his stout stick and hobbled to the village, the sky was clear and blue. Not a cloud was visible anywhere, and the sun was blazing down on the fields of yellow grain that he overlooked from the porch of his little house on the hill. But the storm, as storms do in that mountainous part of Pennsylvania, was gathering its force unseen behind the neighboring mountains, piling black cloud on black cloud, and then, like an army charging on a sleeping enemy, it swept forth from its hiding place amid the flash of lightning and the crash of thunder and deluged the valley.

"My, oh, my!" muttered the old man. "It serves me right. I ought to 'a' know'd better. Whenever I runs down here for a minute's loaf, it rains. Never a team comes along to give me a lift home, an I hez to paddle back in me leaky ole boots."

He hobbled to his chair by the empty stove, about which were gathered the men of the village, despite the fact that no fire blazed within and cold weather was far ahead.

"I hope the company hain't displeasin," snapped the chronic loafer. He knocked the ashes out of his pipe, refilled and lighted it and sprawled out upon the counter, pillowing his back against a pile of calicoes.

"Not at all, at all. It's the loafin I hate. I never could loaf," said the old man, glancing at the prostrate form.

The chronic loafer made no reply save a faint "Huh!"

"Jest because a felly sets around the stove hain't no sign he's lazy," said the miller warmly.

"Fur be it from me from sayin so, boys, fur be it," said the patriarch, stroking his beard. "But, as I was sayin awhile ago, I don't want to git inter no sech habits as Absalom Bunkel."

"Abs'lom Bunkel — Bunkel—Bunkel?" repeated the shoemaker, punctuating his remarks with puffs of tobacco smoke.

"Bunkel—Bunkel?" said the storekeeper inquiringly, tapping the end of his nose with his pencil.

"Who the heck's Abs'lom Bunkel?" the loafer cried.

"Absalom Bunkel was a man as was nat'rally so lazy it was a credit to him every time he moved," the patriarch began. "You uns knows the ole lawg house thet stands where Big run crosses the road over the mo'ntain. It's all tumbled down now. They ain't no daubin atween the lawgs. The chimbley's fallen; the fence hez gone, an the lot's choked up with weeds. It's a forlorn place, but when I was a lad it was jest about the slickest thing along the ridge yander. That's where Absalom Bunkel lived an his pap lived before him. Absalom's pap was a stingy man—so stingy he'd squeeze a cent tell the Injun yelled. Consequent, when he died, he left Absalom a fortune of $700. It was a fort'nate thing fer the son, fer he'd much ruther 'a' set on the porch a-listenin to the birds an watchin the bees hummin over the sunflowers, with the pangs of hunger a-gnawin throu his insides, than to 'a' worked.

"Now, Absalom was afore my time, but I heard all about him from my pap, an what my pap said was allus true—true as gawspel, it was. When ole man Bunkel died, Absalom was 35 year old. He didn't go off spendin his fortune. Not much. He jest set right down on a rockin chair on the front porch an let his sister Nancy tend the house. Nance milked the cow, Nance made the garden, Nance done the housework an come to store. He done nothin—absolute nothin.

"He was never outer bed afore sun up. Ef it was warm, he'd set on the leetle porch all day, lookin over the walley, watchin the folks goin by an the birds a-swoopin along the fiel's or throo the trees, listenin to the bees a-buzzin aroun the garden, to the dreamy hum of natur', fer to do him credit he loved natur'. Ef it was cold, he set all day be the fireplace a-bakin his shins. Once in awhile Nance'd fergit to leave him wood when she went out fer a spell. Does he cut some? Not him. He jest goes to the nearest possible fence rail, kerrys it inter the house, sticks one end inter the fire an keeps a-pushin it in as it burns off.

"Now, it happened thet when he hed ben livin this way tell his forty-fifth year ole Andy Crimmell tuk the place about a mile beyant his. One nice afternoon, as Absalom set a-dozin on his front porch, Andy's dotter, Annie May, come trippin down the road on her way to store, lookin as pretty as a pictur' in her red sunbonnet, swingin a basket an singin a melancholy piece. Absalom woke with a start as she stepped outer the woods above the house, an he got a sight of her pink cheeks afore she ducked under her bonnet, fer when she seen him she sudden stopped singin an walked by, a-lookin over the walley. Thet one glance done Absalom Bunkel. He staid awake tell she come back.

"Thet night he didn't eat no supper."

"'Nance,' sez he to his sister. 'How fur is it to Crimmels?'

"'Nigh onter a miled,' sez she.

"An he jest groaned, drawed his boots, tuk a candle an went up to bed.

"Twicet a week all thet summer Annie May Crimmel come a-singin down the road. An Absalom, dozin on the porch, 'u'd hear her voice tell she'd reach the edge of the woods. There she'd stop her song an go ploddin by, gazin over the walley, like he wasn't about or wasn't wuth lookin at. Absalom kept gittin fatter an fatter from doin nothin, an it seemed to him like Annie May Crimmel was prettier every time she went to store. He was onrastless; he was onhappy. He know'd what was wrong, an he seen no cure, fer to him thet girl walkin 'long the road not 20 rods from his house was like a chunk of bread danglin jest beyant the reach of a starvin man.

"Perhaps you uns wonder why he didn't go down an speak to her. Thet wasn't Absalom's way. He might 'a' walked thet fur to git warm. But to speak to a girl? Never! Oncet he called to her, but she was bashful an hung her head an walked on the faster.

"'Nance,' sez he to his sister thet night at supper, 'I've kinder a notion fer Annie May Crimmel,' he sez.

"'Hev you!' sez she, lookin surprised, though of course she know'd it, an fer weeks hed ben a-wonderin what 'u'd become of her.

"'An perhaps,' sez He, 'you wouldn't mind steppin over there tomorrer an tellin her.'

"'Umph!' she sez, perkin up her nose. 'You'll see me a-gaddin round the walley settin up with girls fer you!'

"He set thinkin a piece. Then he sez trem'lous like, 'Nance, how fur is it to Crimmels'?'

"'A mile to an inch,' sez she.

"He jest give a groand an went off to bed ag'in.

"They say thet next day toward evenin Absalom was seen to rise from his chair, to hesitate, to set down, git up ag'in an begin movin toward the road. He got to the gate, pushed it half open an leaned on it. Tell sunset he stood there, a-gazin wistfullike toward Crimmel's place. Then he give a groand an went to supper.

"Winter drove the lazy felly inter the house. All day long he'd stay by the windy watchin fer Annie May Crimmel, an as she passed he'd smile softlike. When she was gone, he'd look solemn ag'in. An all the time he kep' gittin fatter an fatter an more an more onrastless.

"The winter broke. March come an went. April 1 was a fine, warm day, so Absalom took his cheer out on the porch an set there lookin down the ridge into the walley, where the men was a-plowin fer oats. All at oncet he heard a creakin of wheels an a rattle of gears thet caused him to turn his eyes up the road. Outer the woods come a wagon, piled high with furnitur'. It was a flittin, the Crimmels' flittin, as he know'd when he seen Andy a-drivin an the missus an Annie May settin on the horses. Bunkel was stunned—cleaned stunned. The flittin went creakin past the house, him jest settin there starin. He know'd what it meant to him. He know'd it was fer him the same as the death of Annie May, but he couldn't do nothin. The wagon swung round the bend below the house an was outer sight.

"When he seen the last of the red bonnet flashin in the sun, he th'owed his hands to his head like they was a pain there. Sudden he jumped from his chair an run toward the road yellin: 'Hey, hey! Annie May!'

"He tore throo the gate, down the road an round the bend. They was in sight agin.

"'Annie May!' he called. 'Annie May!'

"The wagon stopped. The girl climbed offen the horse an run toward him. When he seen her comin, he set right down to wait fer her. She stood still.

"'Annie May,' he called, 'come here. I've somethin to tell you.'

"But she turned round an walked, with hangin head, back to the wagon. He jumped up an begin runnin after her ag'in. She heard his callin, an throwed out her hands an started toward him, cryin, 'Absalom, Absalom!'

"But Absalom Bunkel never spoke his mind to Annie May Crimmel. Afore he reached her he stopped sudden, kinder hesitated, then fell for'ard, face downward, inter the road. The girl went to him, but found him dead—dead from overexertin."—New York Sun.

A Joke on a Supreme Court.

Judge Burlingame has a joke on the Michigan supreme court. In ordering a new trial for J. S. H. Holmes, convicted of murder in the first degree and whose defense was insanity, the supreme court took occasion sharply to criticise Judge Burlingame's charge to the jury, asserting that it too fully expressed the court's opinion of the merits of the case. The charge to the jury in the Holmes case happens to be a verbatim repetition of a charge to a jury made by Judge Burlingame five years ago in a trial where insanity was the defense, and in sustaining the verdict at that time the supreme court found fault with the charge because it did not go far enough.—Cor. Chicago Times-Herald.

Scientific Cutting.

Men of science sometimes make extraordinary demands upon the skill of instrument makers. An interesting illustration is furnished by the instrument called the microtome, the purpose of which is to cut excessively thin slices or sections of various substances, such as animal or vegetable tissues, for microscopic examination. Microtomes have recently been invented which, it is claimed, can cut successive sections each only one twelve-thousandth of an inch thick. The edge of the knife which makes such cuts appears perfectly smooth and straight when magnified 50 times.—Youth's Companion.

A Prehistoric Bird.

Dr. E. C. Stirling, F. R. S., announces that he has discovered in the dry basin of a south Australian lake remains of an extinct bird, which in life measured 12 feet in height. The bird seems to have been without wings, and therefore is likely to have possessed many of the habits of the ostrich. The skull measures 1 foot 2 inches. It is probable that it lived in marshy places and fed on herbage. There is only one prehistoric bird known to history which has something of the same appearance as this unknown Australian specimen. This bird probably afforded food to the natives of New Zealand, as is possibly also true of the Australian bird.

They Speak No More.

Edith—Well, I've finally consented to marry our old bachelor friend.

Clara—No! I was never more surprised in my life. He told me positively that he would marry no woman who was not younger than himself.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

"Is he a good churchman?"

"Well, he doesn't pray so loud as some of them, but he pays his pew rent a good deal more promptly than most of them."—Chicago Post.

Bradfield's Female Regulator

It is good for just one thing—to correct and cure irregularities, weaknesses and diseases of the female organs of generation. Take it for too profuse or too scant menstruation—for stoppage from any cause—for monthly pains—for the whites—for falling of the womb—for the beginning of womanhood—for the turn of life.

It is not for men at all. It is solely a woman's remedy. It acts directly upon those special organs of women which, when healthy, make her fair and beautiful, but when diseased, make her an object of pity. Don't you want to be as well again as you were when a little girl? Bradfield's Female Regulator will make you so.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOV. 14, 1897

COLLEGE FOOT BALL.

Harvard and Yale Played Each Other to a Standstill—The Record of Other Games.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 13.—Harvard and Yale played each other to a standstill this afternoon on Soldiers field. For two thrilling hours the sturdy elevens struggled over the white gridiron, desperately disputing every inch of territory and vainly essaying to cross the coveted goal line. The teams had each a strong defence and weak ground-gaining powers, and the logical outcome of the contest was that neither side scored.

The game was disappointing. Each eleven was confident of victory and the expectations of neither was realized. Harvard should have won; she had more possibilities than her rival and she had capabilities which she did not employ to the limit. Yale was but once within scoring distance of the Harvard goal, but when Harvard put her to the test she was not found wanting, and by her resolute and determined defence prevented the crimson from doing what Brown, West Point, Carlisle and Chicago had already accomplished. The game was unusually devoid of long brilliant runs and hair-raising tackles, but the immense crowd was kept at the intensest pitch of excitement over the final outcome. The high wind was an important factor of the result. It made necessary a partially different system of offence and defence for both teams. Yale in winning the toss and securing the wind had Harvard at great odds. The fact that heavily handicapped as she was Harvard defended her territory led all to believe that in the second half the crimson would score an easy victory. In the second, when Harvard had the strong wind at her back, it was after she had been battered and buffeted about the gridiron for over one hour and was in no condition to strike into the line with the most telling effect. Yale's supposed superiority in the kicking department did not materialize. Even when McBride and the Desaulles had the wind at their backs, Haughton very nearly held his own. At times the Yale backs made miserable attempts at punting. Four times they had their kicks blocked by the Harvard forwards; once it turned to their advantage, but once decidedly to Harvard's. Haughton was guilty of several bad but costly fumbles, while Yale's backs seemed to misjudge the punts continually and they were never sure on their catches. At the end Yale seemed to be fresher. The score was, Harvard nothing; Yale nothing. Time—35 minutes halves. Attendance 24,000.

THE NEW YORK BANKS.

Weekly Statement Misleading — Banks Gaining Money and Interior Institutions Over-Supplied With Cash.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Financier says: The statement of the New York clearing house banks for the week ending November 13th, viewed in its general result, is decidedly misleading. The loans, for instance, are reported $1,281,100 higher than the week previous, whereas the loans of sixty-four of the sixty-five banks in the Clearing House Association have fallen off no less than $5,137,100, the decrease having been more than offset by the increase of $6,418,200, reported by one large bank which occupies a prominent position with reference to the Union Pacific settlements now pending. Just what the heavy loan expansion indicates specifically is hard to determine, but that it is involved in these settlements is doubtless true. The same bank has deposited with the Government something like nine millions of bonds to secure the Union Pacific deposits, which further bears out this assumption. Otherwise the business of the banks has not been so good, forty-two of the institutions individually considered having decreased their loans. The item of deposits is also of a misleading character and with one bank eliminated, the loss for the week has been $8,424,200. Adding the increase of $6,418,900 reported by this bank, the gain becomes $2,988,660, as given in the clearing house totals. Here, too, the Pacific payments are in evidence. But treating the settlement in this manner, that is, considering the bank making the greatest changes as apart from the rest, it is found that the total gain of $1,881,100 in cash made by the banks is to be credited entire to the sixty-four institutions, as the bank reporting the heavy expansion in loans and deposits has almost precisely the same reserve carried the week previous. As the increase in loans and deposits of this institution were identical, it follows that the sixty-four banks lost heavily in loans, decreased their cash $1,300,000 and their deposits $3,425,200. The statement thus treated does not balance, but that is all that can be made out of it. The actual facts are that the banks are gaining money, and as interior institutions are over-supplied with cash, the chances for a firmer money market even with the heavy payments due the Treasury are growing less from day to day.

FIRE AT TARBORO.

Bryan House and a Brick Drug Store Burned.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RALEIGH, N. C., November 13.—A special to the News and Observer from Tarboro says: The Bryan House, owned by Judge Howard, and W. H. McNair's brick drug store were destroyed by fire this morning. The Bryan House was valued at $3 000 with no insurance; the other loss was covered by $3,000 insurance. The roof of Morris' store and his goods were damaged slightly.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, November 13.—In the Corporation Court to-day Judge Hanckel decided the case of Joseph P. Cannon, E. Guy Hall and Willie Smith, charged with conspiring to debauch Cannon's wife. The case has attracted much interest throughout Eastern Virginia and Maryland.

MARQUIS OF SALISBURY'S SPEECH ON LORD MAYOR'S DAY.

It Was Essentially a Peace Speech But Gave Satisfaction to No One—Affairs on the Continent—Cecil Rhodes and the South African Situation.

Special London Cable Letter Copyrighted 1897 by the Associated Press.

LONDON, November 13.—The speech of the Marquis of Salisbury at the Guild Hall on Tuesday last, Lord Mayor's Day, again proved him to be past master of saying nothing in many soothing words. It was essentially a peace speech, and did not contain a single indication as to how far the Government is prepared to go in Indian, Egyptian, Soudan and Niger affairs, beyond a general "what can be done will be done." Even the supposed menace to France has since been explained and was not intended to excite French feeling, but was merely to give English public opinion mild satisfaction for a pretended bluff. The Premier's utterances on the subject of international federation lead to the conclusion that the Government is wearying of Great Britain's "splendid isolation," and the imperialistic plans of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, have not yet progressed enough to permit Great Britain to maintain her policy of separation from the rest of the world.

The Continental newspapers regard distrustfully praise of the concert of the Powers coming from the leader of the Power which, rightly or wrongly, the whole of Europe believes to have been the most untrustworthy element in it.

The progressives tend to secularism and accuse the moderates of a desire to again bring the people under the control of the priests and the churches of England. The moderates admit a desire to re-introduce denominational teaching in the schools, but they claim a monopoly of the desire for economy, so far as consistent with efficient education. The expenditure of the schools, under the present board, with a progressive majority, shows a rapid increase in the cost per child.

While a preliminary meeting of the representatives of the striking engineers and of the employers of the men will be held on Monday next to settle upon the terms of the conference arranged through the mediation of the Board of Trade, the expectation of a speedy settlement of the dispute is hardly more sanguine than it was a week ago.

The French chamber of deputies on Friday adopted a bill, which has already been passed by the Senate providing for reform in the criminal investigations before examining magistrates, which have been such a notorious scandal. Owing to the secrecy of the procedure, prisoners have frequently been identified and entrapped by magistrates desirous of convicting them. Hereafter prisoners must be interrogated immediately after their arrest, and in the presence of their lawyers.

The budget of Monte Carlo shows that the profits for the year ending October 31st were 5,000,000 francs below those of the previous year. No reasons are assigned for this falling off. The bank's outlays include 2,000,000 francs to the Prince of Monaco; police and grounds 1,500,000 francs, salaries 1,000 000 francs, orchestra and sports 800 000 francs, payments to run gamblers 100 000 francs and for prevention of suicides 100,000 francs. The number of suicides during the year totalled up 85 persons.

The reason for the absence of Mr. Cecil Rhodes from the festivities attending the recent opening of the railroad at Bulwayo is said not to be due to ill-health, but to be part of a well organized plan to defeat Kruger in the election for the President of the Transvaal, which occurs about two months hence.

The Saturday Review, which has much inside information regarding South African affairs, believes there is a fair working chance of Mr. Rhodes defeating Kruger and electing a Boer who will not be hostile to the mining interests.

Had Mr. Rhodes appeared at Bulawayo, that town would have converted the whole affair into a personal triumph for Mr. Rhodes, which would have antagonized the Boers and would have undone all the pacificatory work of the politicians, the sole object of which is to defeat Kruger.

SHOOTING AT DURHAM.

A Negro Murderer Killed While Resisting Arrest.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

DURHAM, N. C., November 13—This morning in East Durham, a negro, Henry Green, went to the home of Sallie Lassiter, colored, who is a tenant of Mr. R O Scoggins, and for some cause shot and killed Sallie's ten-year old son and fled. Mr. Scoggins got his rifle and with two companions went after the murderer. When they found him, Green turned toward them and reached for his pistol, whereupon Scoggins shot and killed him. Scoggins surrendered himself to an officer, was given a hearing before a magistrate and released.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Admitted to be in Financial Difficulties—The Bible House May be Sold.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 13—Officers of the American Bible Society were questioned to-day regarding a published report that the Society was in difficulties; that it might sell the Bible House, and that in fact the society might go out of existence entirely. It was admitted by the officers that the society needed money and that the Bible House might some day be sold, but further than that the report was denounced as utterly without foundation.

Chicago Roads Refuse to Sign Agreement for a Traffic Association.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, November 13.—It is now definitely settled that there will be no Southwestern Traffic Association. The executive officers of the Chicago roads interested in this business have refused to sign the agreement, and unless they do so it is out of the question for the other roads to think of forming an association that will be sufficiently powerful to maintain rates.

LATE HAVANA ADVICES.

ANNEXATION TO THE UNITED STATES GAINING IN FAVOR.

Insurgents Preparing for a Bold Demonstration in Proof That They Have Not Accepted Autonomy.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, via KEY WEST, FLA., November 13.—Dispatches from Madrid say that the officially inspired papers, El Corro and La Correspondencia, point to the possibility of a division of the Autonomist party into radical and conservative wings.

It is generally believed that the newly appointed Governors in Cuba will hold their offices but a comparatively short time, as it is the general opinion that within two months insular chambers will be formed, when the Governors will be elected by popular vote.

The insurgents are again active throughout Central and Eastern Cuba. It is understood that they will shortly make a bold demonstration as proof that they have not accepted autonomy and to induce the next session of the United States Congress to recognize their rights as belligerents. Marshal Blanco, it is understood, lacks the necessary moral influence over the troops to induce them to carry out his plans for the kind treatment of the insurgents, and the natural consequence of this is a state of confliction.

The annexation of Cuba to the United States is gaining in favor among the mercantile and foreign elements in the island.

The local guerilla band at San Felipe, province of Havana, while reconnoitering in the environs, were surprised by a band of insurgents, under Juan del Gado, and eight of the twenty guerillas composing the band were macheted. The rest fled to the town.

Governor General Blanco has dispatched several pacificos, provided with passes, to the insurgent lines, with a view to inducing the leaders to lay down their arms and accept autonomy. He has issued orders to the guerilla bands not to molest these envoys. Gen. Pancho Carrillo, according to official reports, recently crossed by way of the La Luisa hills at Placetas, with two hundred mounted men, returning from Cienfuegos, where he went to meet an expedition which landed there recently, it is believed, from the Dauntless. Gen. Carrillo was on his way to the Felicia ranch on the border of Rio where is located the camp of Gen. Gomez, in the Sancti Spiritus district.

Marshal Blanco, the Governor General of the island, has, according to official report, requested the presiding magistrates of tribunals before which may be brought natives charged with the crime of rebellion against the Spanish government, to remit these cases and those of a similar character brought against foreigners so that they may be decided according to the terms of the proposed political amnesty for Cuba and the Philippines, approved by the Spanish cabinet on the 7th instant.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

It is Steadily Growing Better at New Orleans and Other Points—The Record of New Cases and Deaths.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Nov. 13.—The Board of Health reports no new cases and no deaths for to-day. The Board announced that this will be the last daily bulletin, as they consider yellow fever at an end in the city.

The Governor to-day removed all quarantine restrictions on freight and mail from all points in the State, and as to passengers from all points north of Greenville, forty-five miles south of Montgomery.

NEW ORLEANS, November 13.—There was a slight increase in the number of new cases of yellow fever reported here to-day, eleven being announced. There were two deaths.

The situation here is steadily growing better and very little attention is now being given to the record of cases and deaths. Advices from the country parishes and the surrounding States say that there is a steady relaxation of quarantine restrictions and a considerable impetus is being given to freight business. New Orleans people who have been away are beginning to return.

MOBILE, November 13.—Four new cases, no deaths and twelve recoveries was the fever report to-day.

JACKSON, MISS., November 13.—Dr. Purnell reports from Edwards to the State Board of Health that there are two new cases of yellow fever in the country near that place. Two suspicious cases reported at Clinton yesterday are pronounced yellow fever. No new cases are reported from the other infected points in the State.

A SPANISH LOAN.

An English Financier Offers to Raise Three and a Half Million Pounds for the Government.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, November 13.—It is announced that E. T. Hooley, the English financier, has abandoned the proposed Chinese loan and is now giving his attention to Spain. He is reported to have offered Spain to raise a loan of 8,500,000 pounds at 4 per cent., secured on the lines of the old quicksilver loan, which is now nearly wiped out. The Spanish cabinet, it is further stated, will consider the matter next Thursday. The project is not regarded favorably in this city, and doubts are expressed of Hooley's ability to float it, even if Spain accepts, which is doubtful, the Spanish Minister of Finance having declared that he does not intend to raise another loan with the quicksilver mines as security.

TWO MEN DROWNED.

A Yawl Boat Cut Down by a Steamer in New York Harbor.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Two men were drowned last night off the bar in Lower Bay. As the Atlantic transport liner Massachusetts was on her way out to sea she cut down a yawl which was waiting to take off pilot Reardon.

The steam pilot boat New York sent the yawl, in charge of two men, to take off the pilot from the Massachusetts. There was a heavy sea on and high winds. For half an hour the yawl manœuvred to get close to the Massachusetts. The wind finally dashed the yawl to the stern of the steamer, with the result that the propeller of the Massachusetts cut the yawl in two. The men were thrown out and drowned.

The dry goods market closed in New York without change in any direction from the dull conditions which have prevailed during the week. There is a dearth of store trading, and the mail orders throughout the entire week have been light. The weakening in cotton goods shows no abatement.

NEWS FROM RALEIGH.

Military on Duty at Rockingham Ask to Be Relieved—Rev. J. W. Lee—Loose Management at the State Penitentiary.

[Special Star Correspondence.

RALEIGH, N. C., November 13.

The captain of the Maxton Guards wrote the Adjutant General this morning requesting that his company and the Governor's Guard be relieved from doing guard duty at Rockingham to-morrow. He said the boys were fatigued and many of them had business which demanded immediate attention. In concluding the letter, he said: "I think it unwise to withdraw troops till the trial is over."

Major Hayes has telegraphed Capt. S. J. Cobb, of the Lumber Bridge Light Infantry to hold his company in readiness to proceed to Rockingham, if the authorities deem necessary. This company will relieve the guard now on duty.

Rev. J. W. Lee stated last night in his sermon that he intended to prevent, if it is in his power, veriscope pictures of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, which is billed to appear here soon.

Tom Burch, the negro who was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment in the penitentiary on a charge of burglarizing, escaped last July. This was not known until to-day, when an old negro went before the mayor and asked for his arrest on a charge of stealing his chickens. There is no telling how many prisoners have escaped from the prison under the present system of loose management.

THE SEAL CONFERENCE

A Fair Chance for the Settlement of Disputed Questions with Canada.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

WASHINGTON, November 13.—While the plans of the Canadian contingent now in Washington in connection with the seal conference are not finally fixed, it is the present expectation that Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Premier, with Sir Louis Davis and his personal following, will leave Washington on their return home Tuesday. Something of the view taken of this Canadian mission by our government may be gathered by the following utterance of a high administration official who has had dealings with the Canadian Premier: Sir Wilfred Laurier has not only been received by the government with great consideration, but has made an excellent impression upon all of the gentlemen with whom he has come in contact. As a staunch Canadian sealsman he naturally demands concession for concession. At the same time he has shown a liberal spirit towards the plan of increasing the commercial intercourse of the two countries, and if he meets the views of the United States half way there is a very fair chance of removing from the present field of view the most important questions which have produced so much irritation between the two countries during the preceding period of "Conservative" administration in Canada.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Concerning the Shipment of Liquors Under the Laws of South Carolina.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, November 13.—Judges Pardee and Newman, of the United States Court, handed down a decision in the famous dispensary case this morning enjoining the Southern from refusing to haul liquor into South Carolina in future.

The decision is an important one, in that the original package law is involved. The judges decided that liquors and wines in bottles, packed in boxes and shipped in car-load lots were, under the laws of South Carolina, clearly admissible and should be handled by any railway.

JOHN EVANS CONVICTED.

THE NEGRO RAVISHER SENTENCED TO BE HANGED NOVEMBER 26.

Conclusion of the Trial at Rockingham—The Prisoner Taken to Raleigh for Safe Keeping Under Military Escort.

[Special Star Telegram.]

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Nov. 13.—As I write to-night the investigation of the rape case is over, and the brute, John Evans, is en route to Raleigh under the escort of a detachment of the Governor's Guards.

The defence closed its case about eleven o'clock to-day. After this the State introduced testimony which knocked over the proof that supported any plea for an alibi. Then the Court took a recess for dinner, re assembling at 2 p. m.

By mutual agreement of opposing counsel the case was submitted to the jury without argument. In consequence of this action, which was universally commended, the judge delivered a plain brief charge, read over his notes and gave the case to the jury.

After a conference of about three hours, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Judge McIver then imposed the death sentence and ordered that the prisoner be hanged November 26th.

This sentence meets the approval of our people generally and they will be content to abide by the result. Too much commendation cannot be awarded to all who participated in the trial. Everything that a spirit of fairness could suggest was done, and no undue haste was made in any part of the investigation. The evidence was beyond a doubt all that any reasonable mind could require for conviction. The few witnesses introduced by the State to-day made it impossible to entertain any plea for an alibi.

The week has been one of excitement, but now the absence of the military force and the cry of the tramping sentinels, will make the morrow a calm and quiet Sabbath, and the dawn of Monday will bring everything to its normal status. A hanging November 26th will be the topic until that date, and ten thousand people will be here to witness the scene.

GOMEZ TO STRIKE

THE CUBAN COMMANDER TO MAKE AN AGGRESSIVE MOVE.

Confidence Among the Insurgents—They Expect Soon to Overthrow the Spanish.

[Washington Star]

It is understood among Cuban sympathizers that General Gomez is going to make an aggressive move shortly, and very important events are expected to transpire in Cuba within a few weeks. The Cubans are evidently looking forward with joyous anticipation to a sudden termination of the war in a complete triumph of the Cuban cause.

Just what Gen. Gomez's plans are no one seems to know, but there is confidence expressed that the programme he has been developing will result in the complete overthrow of the Spanish power on the island. The Cubans base all their hopes upon their own efforts, and anticipate no assistance from this country and no advantage to them from a new policy by the United States Government. It is realized that President McKinley is going to avoid hostilities with Spain as long as possible, and, while it is believed that if the conflict were prolonged enough the United States would inevitably become involved, it is thought that the conclusion of hostilities on the island may come before a radical move has been made by this administration.

NO NEED TO INTERFERE.

If the Cubans themselves win their own liberty within a few months—perhaps a few weeks—there will then be no reason for the United States to get into trouble with Spain.

There is no confidence placed by those who know the situation, in the professions of friendly disposition on the part of the new Spanish cabinet toward this government. The latest note from Sagasta, with all its protestations of friendliness, contained the implied accusation with respect to filibustering and the very adroit suggestion that Spain's rights must be respected, which implies that there is a disposition on our part not to respect those rights.

Ex Congressman Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, will be appointed assistant commissioner of the mineral land office next Monday. Judge Emory F. Best, of Georgia, whom he succeeds, in all probability will be appointed an assistant attorney in the Interior Department.
